A legal twist on holiday tunes

Holiday gift suggestions appear in Life through Dec. 23.

Lawyers should have a sense of humor, what with all the jokes circulating at their expense. "You Don't Wanna Cross Santa," the third CD of "allegedly-humorous" law-related rock 'n' roll songs composed, performed and produced by attorney Lawrence Savell includes the title song that details the pitfalls of an aggressive litigation strategy against St. Nick and "Billin' on Christmas Eve" described as a ballad. Clips of the silly songs and information on two previous CD albums "Legal Holidayze" (with "Bill Those Hours," a parody of "Jingle Bells") and "The Lawyer's Holiday Humor Album" (with "Let 'Em Sue," a parody of "Let It Snow"), can be heard at www.lawtunes.com. New, two-song CD, $3.99; album CDs $16.99, all plus handling.
