

Let 'em sue, let 'em sue, let 'em sue...

Lawyer releases holiday album of humorous law-related music

Looking for a stocking-stuffer for the senior partner who has everything?

New York City lawyer Lawrence Savell has just released a CD of satirical law-related holiday music.

SAVELL

"My songs poke good-natured fun at lawyers and the legal profession," said Savell, a litigator with Chadbourne & Parke.

Some of the original songs and parodies on the CD include "Santa and I Are Going to Pull an All-Nighter on Christmas," "Let 'Em Sue," "Santa v. Acme Sleigh," "It's Going To

Be a Billable Christmas," and "I Dreamed I Saw Santa Workin' In the Library."

Savell said he has written and recorded humorous law-related songs for family members, friends and co-workers. This year he decided to go public.

The songs are "intended to evidence that lawyers can make and take a good-natured joke about themselves without it resulting in protracted — albeit lucrative — litigation."

The CDs sell for $15 and cassettes for $10, plus $5 shipping. Contact Savell at P.O. Box 1294, New York 10185-1294 or through his website at www.lawrencesavell.com. Credit card orders are accepted at (888) 453-4046, by fax at (650) 341-0020.