

"Livin' Life In Six Minutes" . . .

Posted By Peter Lattman On 22nd December 2006 @ 13:15 In Lawyers & Law Firms, Entertainment | No Comments

We told you we'd publish some lyrics from "Merry Lexmas from the Lawtunes," the latest contribution to the "Lawyer-Created Law-Related Rock-and-Roll Holiday" canon by Lawrence Savell, a lawyer at Chadbourne & Parke in New York. Here's a stanza from the rockin' tune, "Livin' Life In Six Minutes":

A lawyer's life is based on time

That's how we earn our dime
Recording work that we do each day
So the client knows how much to pay.
And we must be so precise
More than a pizza each hour we slice
Obsessively we record the ticks
Arranging minutes into sets of six.

---

Article printed from Law Blog - WSJ.com: <http://blogs.wsj.com/law>

URL to article: <http://blogs.wsj.com/law/2006/12/22/livin-life-in-six-minutes/>

back | Click here to print.