

"Merry Lexmas Baby"

Posted By Peter Lattman On 22nd December 2006 @ 14:15 In Lawyers & Law Firms, Entertainment | 8 Comments

Savell wrote this song for his wife and told us that when he first sung it to her, it made her cry. He added: "But, then again, everything I sing makes my wife cry." (True story: Perhaps it had something to do with too little sleep after too much [1] grog last night, but we also teared up this morning while reading these lyrics.)

You could have married someone with normal hours

Home for dinner at six, not midnight guilt flowers
It comes with the job these burdens we bear
But you get me through them by being there
The law imposes such extreme demands
It's a miracle how often you understand
The dinners spoiled, vacations cut short
And despite it all, your strong support
All too rarely do I say
How grateful I am that you've been that way.
Merry Lexmas, Baby
I'm gonna catch that ten-oh-nine
Merry Lexmas, Baby
You know I'll get home just in time
Santa puts the toys together underneath the tree
Then it'll just be you and me.

Article printed from Law Blog - WSJ.com: <http://blogs.wsj.com/law>

URL to article: <http://blogs.wsj.com/law/2006/12/22/merry-lexmas-baby/>

URLs in this post:

[1] grog : <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Grog>

back | Click here to print.